“HyperMotion Technology brings fans closer to the world of football,” said Executive Producer John Peace. “The game allows players to accurately react to the actions on the pitch, ensuring a natural, authentic and exciting gameplay experience. The level of detail in the gameplay has also improved significantly, while the introduction of FIFA Visual Companion really helps players identify and understand the context of their game and makes the goalkeeper calls more intuitive.” A new feature called FIFA Visual Companion is designed to assist coaches and commentators during gameplay. The feature offers a second screen called Live Analysis, which features a menu of detailed statistics, including key pass and shot information, pitch and location information, goal times and more. This visual information is overlaid on top of a live match, giving coaches and commentators the chance to check vital game statistics in real time. The ultimate goal of Visual Companion is to help coaches, players and commentators better understand the game and the situation on the pitch.
